Coleman Legion Plan Active Season

President of the Coleman Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion at a well attended general meeting held Sunday afternoon in the club rooms, reported that despite the fact that the Legion has been operating as a dry canteen since the New Year when it reorganized, that the Club now has a healthy bank balance.

During discussions held, membership agreed on the replacement of the present 36-inch neon lights with the new type instant lighting, eight feet long. Four of these units will be purchased and installed.

A committee headed by Nick Cytko will be in charge of having the necessary repair made to the club roof, while another committee headed by Ed Amell will take charge of tearing out and replacing the concrete walks to the Cenotaph.

A committee headed by Tony Coccione will form a work detail and will repair and put into shape the bowling greens on the east side of the Legion building. Four outdoor type floodlights will also be installed so that the members can enjoy evening games if they so wish.

Date set for the annual Legion picnic for members and their families is July 19th, and in the event of inclement weather, will be held July 26th. The picnic will be at Knowles ranch and free ice cream, pop and hot dogs will be provided for the children.

Transportation for members not having cars, will be provided from the Legion club room at 1:00 p.m. Arrangements for this affair are being looked after by B. Langille and Joe Moscanica.

Plans are being made for a draw for a Kiddy's pony to be held in September. Tickets on the draw will be sold by the membership at 25c each and proceeds are to be used by the Legion for local charities.

Marx Venier, training officer for the Cadet Corps, will look into the matter of Cadets taking part in the annual Legion Remembrance Day Services held at the Cenotaph each November 11.

President Al Krywolt reported that the bi-monthly bingo nights, being sponsored by the Legion are being well attended as are the social evenings held alternately — when members enjoy an evening of dancing and lunch in the club rooms. Next bingo night will be held June 26.

Marx Venier was appointed as secretary of the Legion to replace Mrs. Bertha Crippen.

Bruno N. Rinaldi Passes Suddenly

Citizens of Coleman were greatly shocked and grieved last week to hear of the death of Bruno N. Rinaldi in Medicine Hat. He died two hours later in the Medicine Hat General Hospital. An inquest is to be held.

Bruno, 34 years of age, was born in Coleman where he attended school, after which he worked in the mines for some time before moving to Medicine Hat in 1955. ## Pauls Silvers In Australia

Paul Silvers, formerly of Coleman, was featured in a "Daily News" story regarding the work he is doing as a petroleum engineer in Perth, Australia.

Gas from the newly-found well, flowed in at a rate of 15 million cubic feet a day during a 15-minute test through a quarter inch surface choke.

Paul has been in Australia since December when he was sent there from Edmonton. He worked for California Standard for eight years and was stationed in Edmonton, where he graduated in Metallurgy.

Heavy Rains Cause Landslide at Michel

An estimated 100,000 tons of rocks and dirt crashed down the side of a mountain on the north side of the Michel River at the east end of Michel, B. C., around 8:00 a.m. Tuesday, June 9th, and buried over 150 yards of CPR track.

Rail service between Lethbridge and the Kettle Valley was cut off all day Tuesday and Wednesday, and work crews hoped to get the line cleared by Thursday.

The CPR telegraph service lines and poles, running parallel to the tracks were also knocked out and temporary lines were laid, while clearing the slide area that spewed over the railway tracks continued. Four spans of telegraph lines about 1,000 feet in length, were knocked out.

Seven large caterpillar tractors worked all day Tuesday and Wednesday in an effort to clear the railway lines. The caterpillars, hired by the Canadian Pacific Railway, belonged to Charles Drain of Blairmore, Emil Anderson Construction of Natal, B. C., the Crows Nest Pass Coal Company, E. Knowles, the CPR and W. A. Cooke and Sons of Pincher Creek.

The clean-up job was being directed by Ben Fast, division engineer of Nelson, B. C., and Jack Johnson, assistant superintendent, of Cranbrook, B. C., both of whom were present at the scene.

The huge slide occurred shortly after 8:00 a.m. Tuesday, and some 20 men working on the day shift in the A North mine of the Crows Nest Pass Coal Company, who had already entered the mine, were called out and sent home. The afternoon shift on Tuesday also had the day off. The men were unable to work due to the electric power lines being torn down. Telephones, compressors and the large fans circulating air in the mine are electrically operated.

The large caterpillars pushed the debris into the Michel Creek and what was not washed downstream formed a good cribbing for the banks of the now swollen creek.

June 20 - 26

Canada's greatest race horse and Canada's greatest horse race get together on Saturday afternoon, June 20th, when Northern Dancer takes on all comers in the Queen's Plate.

Unless the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner is scratched before post time, he figures to be a prohibitive betting favorite — but then, nothin' ever certain in a horse race.

The Queen's Plate contested over distance of 1 1/4 miles, is the oldest continuously-run horse race in North America. The purse for this, the 105th running, will be $50,000. Race time on CBC-TV will be 4:00 p.m.

Earlier that afternoon the high-flying San Francisco Giants move into Busch Stadium in St. Louis for a televised Game of the Week against the Cardinals. It's an important encounter for both teams as they seek to break away from the well-balanced pack in the National League. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

CBC's far-ranging Newsmagazine program, Tuesday, June 23 at 10 will present an hour-long wrap-up report on the three months of hearings conducted by the Bilingualism and Biculturalism Commission. In addition to interviewing the Commission's co-chairman, Davidson

Dunton and Andre Laurendeau the co-hosts of the program, CBC Ottawa reporters Ken Mason and Francoise Morissette, will show film on a cross section of hearings throughout the country.

The beautiful music of Richard Strauss will be performed in a special concert on Festival, Wednesday, June 24th at 9:30 p.m. Entitled "Concerto for the 100th Birthday of Richard Strauss", the program will highlight the great composers works as sung by German baritone Hermann Prey and Canadian soprano Lois Marshall. The program host will be Sir Ernest MacMillan. The CBC Symphony Orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Heinz Unger.

The International - exchange television series, Intertel, will give us a look at the internal problems of development of now nation of Kenya on Thursday evening, June 25 at 8 o'clock. How does this new nation build up any national pride amongst eight million natives whose only previous loyalty has been to one of the 40 different tribes in the country?

If you are a fan of country and western music, keep in mind the CBC's three network shivers—Don Messer, Mondays at 7:30 p.m.; Red River Jamboree, Wednesdays at 8 p.m., and Country Hoedown on Fridays at 8 p.m.

Report From Parliament Hill

(Lawrence E. Kindt, M.P.)

In the six years that I have represented Macleod, no public issue has become so heated or has developed such nation-wide interest as the present controversy over the Canadian flag.

The design of the Prime Minister's proposed new flag for Canada has now been made public, and no doubt there are many very different points of view as to the merits of the design itself, but the real issues that have stirred up such violent reactions all over Canada are:

(1) The argument that the maple leaf is not a national emblem. The Ontario maple grows naturally on only about six per cent of Canada's total area. Our great U. S. neighbor to the south has many more maple trees than Canada, extending over a much wider area and growing for a longer season. The maple leaf has been used as a badge for the armed forces and consequently popularized. This, it is pointed out, is no argument for its inclusion on the flag. England, for instance, fought wars for centuries under the rose as an emblem, but it is not on the Union Jack flag. Those arguing that the maple leaf is not a national emblem say that 'o 80 per cent of the country a maple tree is, and will remain, a pure theory—or a museum specimen.

(2) Why is a change from our official flag (the Red Ensign, which Canadian soldiers have fought and died under) necessary at the present time?

The Prime Minister claims that in the last election campaign (1963) he promised Canadians that they would have a new "distinctive" flag within two years of his taking office and that accordingly, he (the Prime Minister) is merely carrying out his election promises as expeditiously as possible.

This explanation seems strange in view of the fact that the Prime Minister himself appointed a Royal Commission on bi-culturalism and bi-lingualism which is at present holding hearings all over Canada for the purpose (among other things) of recommending suitable national symbols such as a flag and an anthem. This commission has as yet neither completed its hearings nor made any recommendations. Why then bring the flag issue before Parliament before this Royal Commission (costing millions of dollars) makes its report?

Another explanation of the Prime Minister's action is that he sincerely believes that the introduction of a flag without the Union Jack (which we are told is poison in Quebec) will go a long way towards settling the highly strained relations between Quebec and the rest of Canada. If this is so, the question may again be asked — but why now? Is there that much urgent pressure from Quebec to bring in a flag before the Royal Commission makes its report?

The answer would still seem to be in the negative.

(3) Let us now examine the third main point at issue, viz: — Should the Union Jack be retained as part of any new distinctive Canadian flag?

This is, of course, a highly personal and individual point of view, and I have literally heard dozens of reasons why the Union Jack should or should not be retained in a Canadian flag. Some of these reasons are logical ones and others are based on emotion and tradition. For example, some people feel that any national flag should incorporate symbols of our country's origin, history, tradition and institutions (I do myself), and for that reason the Union Jack (and indeed the fleur de lis) should have some place on a Canadian flag. Others feel that we should cut the links with the past and that a Canadian flag should incorporate some color or symbol that looks to the future and represent all of Canada. These views are in most cases very sincerely held by their proponents.

In the province of Quebec it seems clear that the Union Jack is not acceptable as part of any Canadian flag. While it is quite true that under the Union Jack, the people of French Canada were guaranteed their language, religion and civil law, nevertheless the facts of life are that the people in Quebec regard the Union Jack as a symbol of their conquest in 1759.

From what I have heard around Parliament Hill, any government would have had a much easier time introducing a flag without the Union Jack four or five years ago. Now, however, the Red Ensign has itself become a symbol of resistance to further demands by Rene Levesque and his group in Quebec for more special concessions to that province and many people feel that the Red Ensign has become a "stop" sign to Quebec demands. Rightly or wrongly, this is what people in the other parts of Canada are beginning to feel.

The debate on the flag promises to be a hot one.

Big Bend ... New Power Source This Year

The hydro-electric plant on the Brazeau River is in its final stages of construction. The plant's first 150,000 kilowatt generator is scheduled for operation by October of this year.

Newsmen, recently visiting the "Big Bend" power development, found the powerhouse a hive of activity. "Right now, we're pushing hard to complete the penstocks to the plant," said M. Coles, resident engineer on the project.

The big steel pipes, 18 feet in diameter, will drop water to the plant turbines through a head of about 400 feet. Although only one penstock will be used for the first unit, another one is being installed at the same time in readiness for a 180,000 kilowatt extension to the plant by 1966.

It took the newspaper editors, reporters and cameramen nearly three hours to cover the entire project. In the bowels of the powerhouse, the group was able to enter the scroll case where rushing water will soon spin turbine blades. The 100-ton stator, part of the generator located above the turbine, is already in position.

The size of the power and storage development impressed the visitors. After seeing the intake to the plant penstocks immediately above the plant, they travelled 12 miles upstream, following the canal which leads to the main dam and reservoir.

Earthwork forming the canal dyke required the placement of 5,000,000 cubic yards of material. Blocking off one of the deeper gullies along the canal route, the dyke became a small dam—larger than the Poceterra dam on the Kananaskis River, west of Calgary.

The outlet works or "pump-house", located near the main dam is one of the interesting parts of the power project. It is the first of its type in Canada. The structure, 160 feet deep from the top of the building to the bed of the canal, will control the water to the canal and the powerhouse downstream.

It will house one, and later two, 12,500 horsepower machines, having a double function. When the level of the reservoir is low they will pump water into the canal; when the reservoir is above a certain level they will generate power.

The main dam was completed in the fall of 1962. During the winter months, stored water is released into the Brazeau River, and in turn into the North Saskatchewan River. This relieves the pollution problem downstream from Edmonton, and will continue to do so after the hydro plant goes into operation.

Even to the casual visitor the Big Bend project is rapidly taking shape. The first unit to generate power for the plant is only a beginning; development of its full potential could reach a million horsepower. Other units will be added to the plant as capacity is required to meet peak load requirements on the Calgary Power system.

Asks Permit For Additional Gas Export To California

Alberta and Southern Gas Co. Ltd. plans to apply to the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board tomorrow (June 2), for a 51 per cent increase in its natural gas exports to California and Montana.

The increase would take effect in two steps beginning in the fall of 1966 and the fall of 1967. It would add a total of 233 million cubic feet per day to the 462 million cubic feet presently authorized as Alberta and Southern's annual average export.

The increased deliveries would raise the total quantity of gas to be exported by Alberta and Southern through 1969 from 4.1 to 6.4 trillion cubic feet.

The new gas supplies would be used to meet growing market requirements of Pacific Gas and Electric Company in the San Francisco area and the Montana Power Company in Montana. A small amount of the gas also would be used for compressor fuel in Canada and the U.S.

PG&E has filed with the California Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco letters of intent to purchase the Alberta gas.

Pacific Gas and Electric distributes gas in northern and central California and is principal sponsor of the Alberta-California pipeline through which gas moves southward. (The Foothills Division of the Alberta Gas Trunk Line Company Limited forms the Alberta segment of the pipeline. Alberta Natural Gas Company moves the California-bound gas from the Alberta-British Columbia boundary to the U.S. boundary at Kingsgate, B.C.)

The additional gas requested is surplus to the requirements of Alberta consumers, and to all existing and pending export permits, Alberta and Southern said in its application.

Part of the additional gas will come from fields already supplying Alberta and Southern and part from recently discovered fields in which Alberta and Southern has gas purchase agreements.

Alberta and Southern is asking the Conservation Board to consolidate its existing and newly-requested export permits into a single 25-year permit ending October 31st, 1989.

On the Short Side

Two men were seated in the lobby of a blood donor station. One was an Eastern tourist—the other an Apache Indian.

After staring a few minutes, the tourist asked, "Are you a full-blooded Indian?"

"Well, no," replied the Apache, thoughtfully. "I'm a pint short!"

A compliment is the pause that refreshes.

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills) You Should Have Style

Somewhere in every article written about John F. Kennedy after he was shot you will find this comment: "He had style!"

Tom Wicker, writing in Esquire, called it "the wry and derisive style of the man", and others have called it a certain gracefulness, an amused sense of humility, and in various ways sought to describe it.

All agreed that he had style.

We all should have style. Style is not an accident. It follows upon best effort. It springs from personal integrity. Kennedy always took with several grains of salt anything laudatory said about him. He had an innate modesty, a virtue he praised in others. He once said, "This ability to do things well, and to do them with precision and with modesty, attracts us all."

Style comes from self-sufficiency. When Kennedy urged the people not to ask what the country could do for them, but what they could do for their country, he wasn't spouting platitudes. He was stating his own creed. And his style sprang from such firm beliefs.

The man with style, while modest, must like himself. Self-approval cannot come to those who are receivers, never givers. One cannot end a sloppy non-productive day without some self-distaste, and where a man does not approve of himself and his works, there is no style.

He had amazing candor for a politician, and that was part of Kennedy's charm. After his first two years in office he confessed, "It is much easier to make speeches than it is to finally make the judgments". Style is largely candor, especially when speaking about yourself. There is nothing quite so striking as absolute honesty.

Is it possible for you and me, at this late date, to develop style? Fortunately, the psychologists give a resounding positive to that question. The moment each of us begins to ask what we can do, what we can contribute to life, the seed of style is in fertile ground and will grow.

You should have style.

Cadet Corps Hold Passing Out Parade

The Blaimore Cadet Corps held its annual passing out parade over the week-end of June 6th. The day was devoted to a morning parade, building inspection, parade inspection and march past, and a mess dinner which was attended by the Cadets' parents. Inspecting officer Roser headed the inspection party and during the supper was called upon by Lieut. Tomset to address the Cadets.

Other speakers included Cpl. Garnett Walker of the Blaimore detachment RCMP; Eric Price a high school teacher; Capt. John Hogan, now of Edmonton, and Lieut. Tomset.

Thanks was extended by Lieut. Tomset to Dave Patterson, physical training instructor; chorus leaders Mrs. Betty Sipak and Mrs. Carol Hollowell, and to Harry Horn and E. Aris for the FN drill they directed during the year.

Promotions for the year were then announced and are as follows: Lieut. Jumarchuk to Captain; S/Sgt. Dunn to Lieutenant; S/Sgt. Hill to WO1; Sgt. Taje to S/Sgt.; L/Opl. Fowler to Sergeant; L/Opl. Hobson to Sergeant; Lance Corporals Bannick and Oliva to Corporals, and Cadets Luini, Wayman, Peressini and Feller to Lance Corporals.

Awards were then made to Capt. Jumarchuk for the best shot; to Lieut. Dunn, best all round Cadet; Sgt. Fowler, best turned out Cadet; L/Opl. Luini, best five-year Cadet.

Perfect attendance awards to Cadets Gibos, Luini, Aris, Feller and Fowler; Master Cadet awards to Lieut. Dunn, S/Sgt. Taje; Youth of Empire award, Capt. Jumarchuk; First Aid award, to Lieut. Dunn.

The Cadets and guests then enjoyed a variety program comprising music selections, chorus numbers and skits. In charge of the program was Marx Venier and L/Opl. Jimmy Hobson.

The inspection party included Captain Wm E. Rosa (Area Cadet Training Officer), Regimental Sgt.-Major Begli and S/Sgt. Cooper, all of Calgary.

Tornado Hits Pass District; Forest Damage Terrific

Ripping its way through the heavily timbered area in the Pass District near the Alberta - British Columbia border, a tornado estimated to have been moving at over 150 miles an hour caused damage estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars to the timberlands.

The tornado peak winds accompanied by a driving rainfall came during the early hours of Monday morning.

The tornado appeared to have hopped from one spot to another ripping a swath varying in width from 300 yards across to one mile and in spots several miles long.

An area well in excess of 500 acres, was flattened by the storm, which lumbermen in the area described as the worst they had ever seen. Looking at the damage from a high vantage point, it appeared as if a huge roller had passed over the area snapping off trees like toothpicks and laying them down like blades of grass.

The timber berth most heavily damaged was that of the North Fork Lumber Company operated by Joe Gibos of Coleman.

The trees in the 80-to-90-year-old timber berth were an average of eight to 10 inches in thickness and some 50 feet in height. Trees in the timber berth were used by a pole industry in Frank. No definite estimate of the damage has yet been made but it is known that hundreds of thousands of board feet of lumber have been knocked down.

Forestry officials and lumbermen are now worried that bark beetles will start work on the fallen trees and salvage operations must get under way quickly to save as much time as possible. The salvage must be done within one year or the beetles will ruin the timber and infest the remainder of the timber stands within a two-year period.

Lumber operators will hire additional help to salvage the lumber, which officials say will be a costly procedure as new roads to the uprooted trees will have to be made. There are no access roads to spots where some of the fine timber has been knocked down in the western section of the timber berth.

The Forestry department will have to spray areas by air where there are no access roads in order to destroy the timber bark beetles.

G. A. Longworth, superintendent of the Blaimore offices of the Forestry Department, accompanied by Bob Steele, director of Forestry from Edmonton, examined the damage Tuesday, June 9th in the morning, but could not estimate the extent of the damage as the area had not been completely checked. Path of the tornado can be seen crossing over the mountain tops in British Columbia.

National Park Fishing Regulations

Some reduction in limits and new opening dates for certain lakes in the National Parks in British Columbia and Alberta are the main features of the 1964 National Park fishing regulations announced recently.

There is an earlier opening date at some lakes, particularly in the Jasper National Park, while at some other lakes, where there is heavy fishing pressure, the season will open a week or two later than last year. Generally by June 15th fishing will be open on most National Park waters.

On certain popular park waters the daily catch has been reduced to

Willow Valley Trophy Club Shoot Set for June 20

The Willow Valley Trophy Club has announced that the 15th annual Shoot will again be held at the F. Lynch-Staunton ranch, 12 miles north of Lundbreck on Saturday, June 20th. The competitions will get underway at 10:00 a.m. sharp, and will continue until noon when a lunch recess will be held, after which shooting will again commence. The ladies of St. Martin's Church will serve dinner at noon and a lunch in the evening for which a small charge will be made.

The following competitions will be held during the day:

The Hutchinson Trophy trap shoot, the Pete Maloff trophy 22 rifle shoot, the Willow Valley Trophy Club trophy shoot 22 rifle, the Wadina Trophy five man team 22 rifle, the ladies' team match 22 rifle, the Blackburn Trophy for the high scorer in the five man team shoot or ladies' team match; the W.V.T.C. Ladies' Trophy 22 rifle event, and the Jack Reid Trophy 22 rifle shoot for junior boys or girls, 16 years of age and under.

The committee has pointed out that all Dominion Marksman 20 yard targets will be used in the 22 calibre competitions. Rifles weighing seven and a half pounds or less are the only ones that may be used. Contestants must supply their own ammunition. Super Clean long rifle shells will be available on the grounds.

In the big game rifle events, only one entry in each event is allowed and competitors will be able to enter the following Willow Valley Trophy Club events with iron sights: the Willow Valley Trophy Club trophy with scope sights, the Harvey Davis Trophy for the tight group shooting event, the Barons Rod and Gun Club Trophy Hunters trophy and the Timberline Saddle Horse trophy shooting at a moving target.

In all of the above big game rifle events, except the tight group rifles used must be of .24 calibre or larger.

A Grand Aggregate prize is also being awarded for which contestants can earn points in the five-man team event, the 22 calibre shoot, iron or scope sight big game event, the hunters match and the trap shoot. If possible the committee in charge will post scores as contestants complete their events.

Trophy winners of last year are asked to please turn in their trophies before or on the day of the shoot so that the new winners may be presented with the trophies.

Should inclement weather necessitate changing the date, the shoot would be held on June 27.

Employment Outlook Appears Good

Terry Robertson, manager of the Blaimore National Employment Service, has stated the general employment picture for the area has been adversely affected by snow and heavy rainfall during the past month. Otherwise the employment outlook appears good.

The coal industry is continuing at a high rate of production and operators are continually seeking improved methods to meet the heavy demands for coal.

Lumbering and construction operations have been delayed due to unusual weather conditions. Local building contractors state there has been a heavy demand for re-modelling and repair work which has kept them very busy.

There is a large surplus of mill and logging workers in the area who are seeking other employment or casual employment pending return to their usual jobs. It is expected a shortage of experienced loggers will exist when the weather has improved.

The shortage of jobs for high school students seeking summer employment in the area is evident. There are a number of young people registered for employment with the Blaimore office who must find work to assist in financing their next term at school. It is suggested employers, wherever possible, hire students for part-time or summer employment.

Mr. Robertson said an analysis of the unemployed in the area indicated approximately 10 per cent more people were employed this year despite the unseasonable weather which has caused delay of workers returning to their jobs.

IN ORDER TO PUBLISH reports of meetings of various organizations, it would help if a press correspondent was appointed by each one to send in the news. It is impossible for a reporter to attend all the meetings, therefore co-operation would be appreciated, and at the same time publicity would be assured for the meetings.

Everybody is ignorant, only on different subjects.

Locate Missing Bellevue Boy

An organized hunt for a missing eight-year-old boy climaxed happily around 7:30 p.m. Tuesday when the lad was found safely, playing in the Hillcrest ball park.

Bob Egan, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Curry Egan of Riverbottom, had been missing since 4:30 p.m., when he was let off the school bus with two other children at the Hillcrest railway crossing.

The lad was last seen by his brother Jim, nine, who told police he saw his brother going over the Hill towards Bellevue, when he was let off the bus, which was the last time the boy was seen.

Fearing that he had played near the flood level Crows Nest River, about 75 yards away from where he was dropped off, Bellevue Police Chief Jack Davies, who was notified, immediately organized search parties who walked the river banks while others searched the surrounding hills. Two Bellevue fire brigade members, Bill Gregory and Lawrence Rosio, assisting in the search, spotted the lad playing in the Bellevue ball park.
